

EZ-Personal Protection Kit

This fully disposable kit focuses on offering comprehensive exposure protection against potentially infectious blood and body fluids. Designed for pandemic and infection control, this kit comprises a well-organized selection of personal protective equipment (PPE) to address potential exposure to infectious materials. Compact and easily storable, can be safely disposed of after use, ensuring the highest safety and hygiene standards.

Suitable for various environments, including clinics, first responder situations, retail, funeral homes, as well as medical, dental, and veterinary offices. PPE is the perfect tool to have anywhere a first aid kit is present and in any business where job-related contact with blood or other infectious material is a potential risk.
